

I was very nervous on my first lesson with Andy as I had no confidence due to my previous instructor being overly critical and inconsistent. Straight away Andy put me at ease, talked me through how he works and then discussing my previous experience. After a few lessons I found my buried confidence and actually looked forward to my driving lessons instead of dreading them because Andy was very patient and understanding. The way Andy works is perfect, he will ask you how you felt the drive or manoeuvre went so you have to think about it instead of him just telling you, you have made a mistake. The best choice I ever made was switching over to Andy, it's thanks to his patience, great way of teaching, and just being a genuinely nice guy that I managed to pass my test. I know for sure anyone else who learns to drive with Andy will not be disappointed, you will succeed!

Kind regards

Kerry
